

They are two little islands, placed between Dèsirade and Marie Galante, strictly protected both as marine and land reserve.

An untouched paradise, up and under the sea. Protected by high cliffs on which waves break, each variety of reef gives hospitality to innumerable kind of fishes.

The fauna variety is very large, for this reason on the island named Terre de Haut, there's a guardian who carefully controls: the main attractions are iguanas, that, undisturbed, bask in the sun.

On this island it's not allowed to land.
