

It is located on the windward coast, the least known and frequented, but certainly it has nothing to envy to the most renowned places of the island, starting point for cruises on rented catamarans

Even if it is not always easy to reach due to the often strong trade winds and consequent sea conditions, a sufficiently powerful engine and proper instrumentation will allow you to find anchorages suitable to your nautical needs. The coast is bordered by an extended reef, the turquoise water is always extremely clear and illuminated by a lighthouse that indicates the southern part of Martinique.

From here, it is possible to depart south for cruises and holidays in the Grenadine islands on rented catamarans or sailing boats
