

It is still a marine reserve not very popular that's why it can be defined a real earthy paradise. It was bought in the early twentieth century by a rich patron who prevented the construction of any building.